

Are you Barclays top Manager?

The Barclays Premier League kicks off on Saturday, 13 August and all colleagues have a great opportunity to feel part of the action.

Fantasy Football is back and this season's winner will receive their own replica Manager of the Season award, just like Manchester United Manager, Sir Alex Ferguson.

They will also join an exclusive club of recipients including last year's champion, John Manton from RBB in Radbroke Hall, along with other top Barclays Premier League managers.

The award is one of the most high profile recognitions of management in the world of football and only available to colleagues through Barclays sponsorship of the league.

There are also a range of exclusive prizes available for colleagues to win throughout the season; hospitality tickets, club shirts and Barclays Premier League branded merchandise.

Colleagues will also be able to set up private leagues to make inter-office competition even more exciting. The top performing private league will win the once-in-a-lifetime prize of dinner with a former Barclays Premier League player.

Everyone who enters a team will immediately be part of a start of season draw to win one of 20 pairs of Barclays Premier League tickets.

You don't need to be a football expert either to take part as there is an automatic 'lucky dip' option to do all the hard work, of picking the team, for you.

Click here to enter before Saturday, 13 August.

*Conditions apply to some prizes and for winners based outside the UK. Full details available here