

Manchester United celebrate another Barclays Premier League title

After another exciting season-long race for the Barclays Premier League title, with a number of potential winners throughout, Manchester United have finally secured the points they need to take the 2010/11 title back from closest rivals Chelsea.

Their draw away at Blackburn Rovers made it mathematically impossible for them to be caught, ending any hopes Chelsea had of taking the title race into the last weekend of the season and giving United a record 19th top flight title.

After many weeks of planning by Barclays for the potential trophy presentation scenarios which included a number of Barclays Premier League clubs, the trophy will be presented to the new champions after their match at home against Blackpool this Sunday, 22 May.

A global audience of millions will be watching as the most exciting league in the world comes to a close for another season, providing Barclays with extensive exposure for its brand across the world.
